

Postgraduate Diploma in Law (EX CPE/PGDL)

The Postgraduate Diploma in Law (PGDL) will enable you to enter the legal profession if you do not have a first degree in law or your existing law degree is not sufficient for the requirements of the major professional bodies in law.

The PGDL covers the key foundation subjects to complete the academic stage of training to become a barrister or solicitor.

Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, graduates will be able to:

- Demonstrate a critical awareness and systematic evaluation of the areas of law studied, the legal process, and the interrelationship between different areas of law in a national and European context.
- Critically evaluate and apply a range of sources of legal information to assist in legal study and to extract the essential points of that information.
- Demonstrate a critical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to model and synthesise original academic legal theory.
- Critically evaluate, synthesise and apply advanced and contemporary theoretical principles and emergent primary sources of law to a range of complex and open ended issues, problems and situations.
